12:38:29 From Nancy Halloran to Everyone:

0.5% is what the article says :-)

12:43:25 From Dean Wight to Everyone:

Please provide more information about the initiative involving 211 and data integration.

12:43:56 From Stefani Hartsfield to Hosts and panelists:

Elissa, can you share the report about health and housing data integration? Thanks!

12:46:09 From Deborah Banerjee to Everyone:

We have been trying to link data from the school district, health and justice system for the past 5 years. Progress has not happened because of concerns of HIPAA and FERPA etc.

12:47:38 From Richard Taylor to Everyone:

Deborah Banerjee - thanks for sharing your experience with schools, health and justice data sharing. Our company (eTransX) offers a community information exchange system and we have experienced similar issues but are making progress with the justice system I can share with you.

12:47:44 From Jeff Levi, GWU to Hosts and panelists:

@Deborah — the HIPAA and FERPA issues can be resolved....it's not easy but groups like Healthy Schools Campaign have developed guidelines along these lines, I believe.

12:49:04 From Jen Pincus to Everyone:

Deborah Banerjee- There is work being done in Western NY by the United Way and Rochester RHIO that is also doing work around blending medical, social services and educational data.

12:49:32 From Amanda Knick to Everyone:

Richard and Deborah - We might be trying to connect to the justice system too as part of a crisis redesign project. I'd be really interested in hearing about your experiences.

12:50:23 From Jeannette Raymond to Everyone:

Minnesota is partnering with health systems to utilize the electronic health records to answer questions we cannot answer with Public Health data

12:51:04 From Nancy Halloran to Everyone:

We have also worked through a lot of those difficult HIPAA issues - it has taken a lot of time (years) and investment in relationship-building, and we now have a local Social Health Information Exchange that links multiple players here in Alameda County

12:51:05 From Kathryn DeFilippo to Everyone:

I'd be interested to hear more about the practicalities of data integration and systems and processes. We can bring people together but if we don't have the tech that has the functionality needed, we are limited.

Find out more about the All In Affinity Groups here: <https://allindata.org/affinity-groups>

12:51:12 From Richard Taylor to Everyone:

To Amanda - would be glad to share with you how we are working the 4th Judicial District of TN in sharing personal data with multiple cross sector organizations in Tennessee

12:51:22 From Jackie Ward to Everyone:

@Jeanette - what kinds of data/questions?

12:51:36 From Amanda Knick to Everyone:

Thanks Richard!

12:52:22 From Anna Barnes to Hosts and panelists:

I also encourage you to connect with the Network for Public Health Law - for free technical assistance particularly around getting to yes on the legal side.

12:54:10 From Jeannette Raymond to Everyone:

How do we get information on how local units of government are using the dollars? How can we make this process more transparent so that community members can influence how dollars are spent?

12:54:28 From Jackie Ward to Everyone:

I second Jeanette's questions. Thank you.

12:55:21 From Blair Harvey to Everyone:

@Deborah Banerjee @ Nancy Halloran - we are/have been doing this work in Chicago and other health providers and would love to learn/share from your experience. Blair Harvey - Public Health Institute of Metropolitan Chicago,. We just launched a pilot this summer.

12:56:08 From Rashonda Lewis to Hosts and panelists:

Pathways to Yes! I will be looking for this. NPHL is a fantastic resource!
